ABRAHAM LINCOLN

A Play

By JOHN DRINKWATER

Read as dramatic literature, or in connection with history or biography, this play written by an English dramatist, reinterprets the character and times of Abraham Lincoln. The New York Times says of it, "A beautiful and stirring thing. It has a quality rare on the modern stage—nobility. You sit enthralled as it unfolds and come away a better citizen."

The two plays, Abraham Lincoln, and The Piper by Josephine Preston Peabody, admirably meet the College Entrance Requirements for "Two Modern Plays."

TO TEACHERS OF ENGLISH:

¶ The English studied in the schools and colleges of the United States, as "officially approved and recommended," is divided into two classes, viz.: "Requirements under the Restrictive Plan," and "Requirements under the Comprehensive Plan."

¶ The Kingsley Outline Studies cover the books in the first class, except McCaulay's "Clive" and Arnold's "Wordsworth." 81 Titles, 20 cents each. Send for detailed list.

¶ We are pleased to announce that beginning with the October number of Education we shall publish a new series of Outlines covering the English Requirements included in the Comprehensive list, one Outline appearing in each number of our magazine until the whole list is covered.

¶ English Teachers everywhere should subscribe to Education, beginning with October, to get this valuable new series of Outlines by Miss Maud E. Kingsley. Of her series on the Restrictive list we have sold hundreds of thousands. They are used everywhere. The new series will be equally helpful. The Outline in October Education will be on Emerson's Essays, which are widely read in the schools.

¶ Education is the oldest high-class monthly educational magazine in the United States. Price, $4.00 a year; 40 cents a copy.

JOY IN WORK

TEN SHORT STORIES

Edited and Selected by MARY A. LASELLE

Newton High Schools, Massachusetts

The following ten authors who are especially qualified to write upon the subjects chosen have told in these interesting stories of the joy that comes from tasks accomplished: James B. Connolly, Dorothy Canfield, Herman Hagedorn, H. C. Bunner, Mary E. Waller, Stewart Edward White, Hamlin Garland, Norman Duncan, Kate Fogarty, Lawrence E. Perry.

The stories deal with work on the sea, in quarries, on a ranch, in a lumber camp, on a farm, in a doctor's practice, in a frontier parish, in an Indian tepee, in social service, and among the wounded in the Great War.

Vitalizing Literature

Literature is the record in words of man's common thoughts and emotions. In reality it cannot be taught. True appreciation for it grows out of a common experience shared by teacher and pupil in terms of joy, sorrow, sympathy, sincerity, and love. Sydney Lanier says, "Music is love in search of a word."

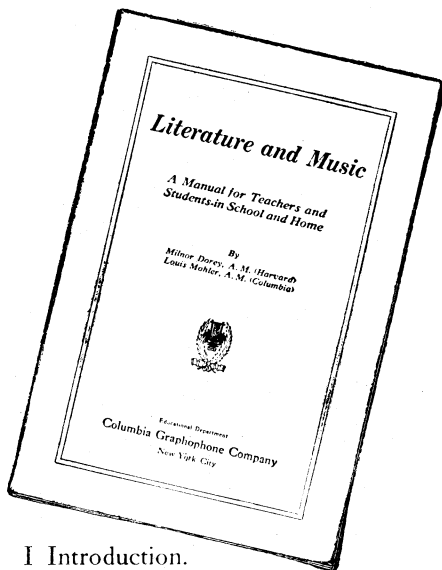

Teachers of English, have you ever thought of music as a beautiful and worthy ally? Do you know that the stories, poems, and plays you wish your pupils to read and to enjoy may have their message implanted more surely in their minds and hearts by the use of music wisely chosen and presented? "Literature and Music," a publication of the Educational Department of the Columbia Graphophone Company, offers a wealth of material accurately correlated for your work. Here are the Contents:

Columbia School Grafonola with Pushmobile

Second Revised Edition

Handbook of English Composition

A Compilation of Standard Rules and Usage

By LUELLA CLAY CARSON

Head of Department of English, Yankton College. Recently President of Mills College

Here is a textbook which trains the student in accuracy and effectiveness in the essentials of English composition; and the ready, rapid, and unconscious use of correct forms.

Many valuable suggestions and clear explanations of confusing points assist the student in learning the rules of grammar and rhetoric.

Grouping and indexing for ready reference aids in securing immediate results; the inclusion of many details of usage and fundamental processes promotes the formation of habits of accuracy. It is a compact book of reference and direction. The illustrations, notes, and suggestions are brief, definite and at the same time illuminating and lucid. There is a mass of useful information—all supported by recognized authorities and by usage.

The book is used as a textbook in high schools and colleges.

Separate chapters deal with the following subjects:

CAPITALIZATION	MECHANICAL AIDS	CONSTRUCTION	COMPOUNDS	COPY FOR THE
ABBREVIATIONS	PUNCTUATION	PROCESSES	CRITICISM	PRINTER
SPELLING	SYLLABICATION	ITALICS	LETTER-WRITING	BIBLIOGRAPHY

The appendix contains sections on the following matters:

POETIC FORM	SYNONYMS	BUSINESS FORMS
HOMONYMS	THEME CORRECTION MARKS	WORDS OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED
A FEW COMMON ERRORS	ANTONYMS
